

Rising From The Ashes

Ravaged by fire and flood, High Point's formerly "lost" Dalton-Bell-Cameron House is reborn as a resplendent designers' showhouse

BY NANCY OAKLEY • PHOTOGRAPHS BY AMY FREEMAN

This primrose path leads to Happy Hour! The stories that Tim Lynch and Javier Gonzalez used to line the walkway leading to Sally Williams' convivial She Shed have been repurposed from a chimney lost in one of the fires that consumed the Dalton-Bell-Cameron House. The interior of the tiny outbuilding, with faux greenery covering the ceiling and cocktail-themed accents, invite you to plop down, put your feet up and raise a glass among friends.

